

traveling film south asia 2004

Whose Development?

A selection of films that question the hijacking of natural resources and marginalization of indigenous peoples in the name of development.

Hunting Down Water India, 2003

(Dir: Sanjaya Barnela and Vasant Saberwal)

A chronicle of India's present man-made water crisis, where farmers' livelihoods have been destroyed due to illogical diversion of water for frivolous urban use.

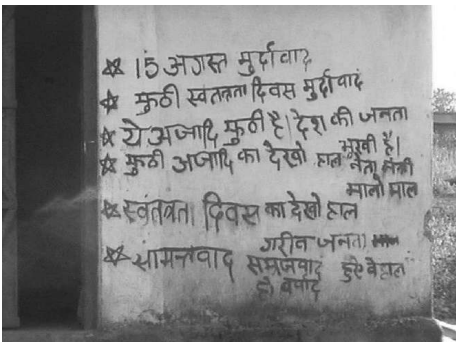

Mission Cultural Center, San Francisco
Sunday, March 21st 3pm

The Fire Within [Buru Sengal]
India, 1999
(Dir: Shriprakash)

An exploration of the impact of corruption, the mafia, energy politics, displacement of villages and erosion of tribal identity on a once-peaceful tribal community.

Mission Cultural Center, San Francisco
Sunday, March 21st 3pm

Development Flows from the Barrel of a Gun
[Vikas Bندوق Ke Nal Se]
India, 2002
(Dir: Biju Toppo)

This film presents and examines orchestrated state violence against indigenous and local peoples when they rally and protest against development projects on their lands..

Mission Cultural Center, San Francisco
Sunday, March 21st 3pm

Films co-presented by Association for India's Development, Bay Area
www.aidsfbay.org

Presented by Ekta and Friends of South Asia, in collaboration with Himal Association.

For more information on these and other films showcased in Traveling Film South Asia 2004, visit <http://www.ektaonline.org/tfsa/>